

Lismore Kart Club Championship points score.

The Class Championship points as of the Round 4 meeting in August are now posted in the Championship section.

Some errors in the points allocation for the first two rounds have been corrected, which has changed to overall “club champion” standings.

Rookie class driver Chris Burley, clear leader in his class has a 2 point margin over Junior National Light driver, Lachlan O’Reilly who is also clear leader in his class. With only a couple of rounds to go, it will definitely come down to the wire.

Kurt Nommensen, heading up the Midget class points is showing that consistency pays. His attendance at every race meeting giving him a handy buffer over second placed Quinton Slabbert who has missed a couple of rounds. Kurt’s younger brother, Dmitri is tied for second place in the midgets having also gained points at each round.

It is great to be adding more D (Provisional) Grade drivers to the Lismore point score each time it is updated. Welcome to these new drivers and pitcrews. It’s been nice also to update some drivers from D(P) to C grade as they gain experience and move from starting at the rear of the grid.

Something that the TAG drivers might want to discuss at the next Club meeting, is what to do with the “midweight” points from the first 2 rounds. It would make sense to allocate whatever points each driver gained in rounds one and two as midweight to the preferred light or heavy class the driver ran in rounds three and four.

This also needs to be worked out if the Juniors are to run midweight in future meetings, as was suggested at the July round.

Also, check out the results for the August club day. This is the new format that the new computer system generates. It’s nice and concise and has all the heat results as well as the overall position for the day.
